CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

19. Pursuant to Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, the plaintiffs seek to prosecute the plaintiffs' claims as a class action in behalf of a class consisting of all current and former employees who are or were formerly employed, within the meaning of the New York Labor Law, by the defendants in the state of New York at any time since six years prior to the date of the complaint to the entry of judgment in this case and to whom the defendants failed to pay or underpaid overtime compensation at a rate not less than one and one-half times the plaintiffs' and class's regular rate of pay for the hours the plaintiffs and class worked in excess of forty per workweek, in violation of N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 12, § 142-2.2.

20. This class is so numerous that joinder of all class members is impracticable. Although the precise number of such persons is unknown, and the facts on which the calculation of that number are presently within the sole control of the defendants, upon information and belief, there are approximately one hundred members of the class, most of whom would not be likely to file individual suits because they lack adequate financial resources, access to attorneys, or knowledge of their claims.

21. The plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class and have retained counsel that is experienced and competent in the fields of employment law and class action litigation. The plaintiffs have no interest that is contrary to or in conflict with those members of this collective action.

22. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy, since joinder of all members is impracticable. Furthermore, inasmuch as the damages suffered by individual members of the class may be relatively small, the expense and burden of individual litigation make it virtually impossible for the members of the collective action to individually seek redress for the wrongs done to them. There will be no difficulty in the management of this action as a class action.

23. Questions of law and fact common to the class predominate over questions that may affect only individual members because the defendants have acted on grounds generally applicable to the class. Among the common questions of law and fact common to the class are: (1) whether the defendants employed the class within the meaning of the New York Labor Law; (2) what proof of hours worked is sufficient where the employer fails in its duty to maintain time records; (3) whether the defendants failed to pay or underpaid overtime compensation at a rate not less than one and one-half times the plaintiffs' and class's regular rate of pay for the hours the plaintiffs and class worked in excess of forty per workweek, in violation of N.Y. Comp. Codes R. & Regs. tit. 12, § 142-2.2; and (4) whether the defendants are liable for all damages claimed hereunder, including but not limited to compensatory, punitive, and statutory damages, interest, costs and disbursements and attorney's fees.

COLLECTIVE ACTION ALLEGATIONS

24. Pursuant to 29 U.S.C. § 216(b), the plaintiffs commence this action as to the plaintiffs' claims arising under the Fair Labor Standards Act as a collective action in behalf of all similarly situated current and former employees of the defendants at any time since three years before the date of this complaint to the entry of judgment in this action who consent to become party plaintiffs.

25. The plaintiffs and the putative party plaintiffs have had substantially similar jobs and compensation and have been subject to the defendants' common policies and practices of willfully violating the Fair Labor Standards Act as set forth in this complaint. The claims of the plaintiffs stated herein are similar to those of the putative party plaintiffs.
